

FRONT OFFICE · ROSTER · RUMOR MILL

LOS ANGELES RAMS

INTEL REPORT

2026 training camp edition — two blockbuster trades, the reigning MVP and the reigning Defensive Player of the Year on one roster, and Super Bowl favorite odds to carry.

UPDATED

July 25, 2026

Sean McVay	Stafford	Myles Garrett	NFC Title Game	SB Favorite
HEAD COACH	REIGNING MVP	REIGNING DPOY	2025 EXIT	DRAFTKINGS ODDS

◆ FRONT OFFICE & LEADERSHIP

- ◆ All-in, stated plainly. After losing the NFC Championship Game to Seattle, Los Angeles spent the offseason signing big in free agency and making two blockbuster trades. Nobody in the building is describing this as anything other than a championship push.
- ◆ Kliff Kingsbury joins the staff from Washington, adding another offensive voice around McVay and the reigning MVP.
- ◆ Stafford, extended — sort of. The Rams got a deal done, but the arrangement remains effectively year-to-year, buying rookie Ty Simpson time to develop behind a 38-year-old starter.
- ◆ Camp: players reported July 25; practices run July 26 – Aug. 7 at Loyola Marymount.

◆ TRADES & MAJOR TRANSACTIONS

- ◆ TRADE Myles Garrett acquired in June — the reigning Defensive Player of the Year. The cost was steep: EDGE Jared Verse, a 25-year-old two-time Pro Bowler, plus multiple picks including a 2027 first-rounder.
- ◆ TRADE Trent McDuffie from Kansas City in March, then signed the All-Pro corner to a four-year, $120M extension. Called the biggest trade of the offseason before Garrett topped it.
- ◆ SIGNED CB Jaylen Watson — Kansas City's other starting corner from last season, giving Los Angeles both halves of the Chiefs' 2025 secondary.
- ◆ SIGNED LS Joe Cardona to a two-year deal, solidifying the specialist operation.
- ◆ DRAFT QB Ty Simpson — the succession plan, still unsigned as camp opened.

◆ RUMOR MILL

- ◆ SPECULATION Aaron Donald, un-retired? Trading for Garrett in June revived talk of a Donald return to play alongside the reigning DPOY. McVay said the team is "of course" open to it — and that the decision belongs entirely to Donald.
- ◆ CONTRACT Puka Nacua has a looming, potentially top-of-market extension ahead of him.

◆ PLAYER UPDATES & CAMP BATTLES

- ◆ Matthew Stafford, QB. Reigning MVP, entering his age-38 season. The recurring question is whether the Rams should again limit his camp workload — a real debate given how 2025 ended for him.
- ◆ Myles Garrett, EDGE. Arrives as the best defensive player in football and the single biggest reason Los Angeles opened as a Super Bowl favorite.
- ◆ Trent McDuffie, CB. $120M extension in hand, paired with former Chiefs teammate Jaylen Watson — a secondary rebuilt in one transaction cycle.
- ◆ Puka Nacua, WR. Back after a stint in rehab and continuing that work, with a major extension on the horizon. Both matter to how 2026 goes.
- ◆ Backup QB battle. Rookie Ty Simpson, still unsigned as camp opened, against Stetson Bennett for the job behind Stafford.
- ◆ The hype problem. ESPN's framing of this camp is simply whether the Rams can live up to it — there is no version of 2026 where a conference title game is a satisfying result.

◆ LATEST ROSTER MOVES

MOVE	DETAIL
▲ Myles Garrett, EDGE	Acquired by trade in June — reigning DPOY
▲ Trent McDuffie, CB	Trade from Kansas City + 4 yr / $120M
▲ Jaylen Watson, CB	Signed from Kansas City
▲ Kliff Kingsbury	Joined the staff from Washington
▲ Joe Cardona, LS	Two-year deal
▲ Matthew Stafford, QB	Extended, still effectively year-to-year
▲ Ty Simpson, QB	Drafted; unsigned as camp opened

◆ THE BOTTOM LINE

Los Angeles lost a conference championship game and responded by acquiring the reigning Defensive Player of the Year, both of Kansas City's starting corners, and an extension for the MVP who is about to turn 38. There is no hedge in this roster and no patience built into it. The window is this year, McVay knows it, and the only questions left are Stafford's workload, Nacua's extension, and whether Aaron Donald picks up the phone.