

NEW YORK JETS INTEL REPORT

2026 training camp edition — half the staff replaced, three first-round picks, Geno Smith back in green, and a head coach who probably needs results now.

◆ FRONT OFFICE & LEADERSHIP

- ◆ HOT SEAT Aaron Glenn's make-or-break year. He replaced half his coaching staff — including both coordinators — rebuilt the defense, and imported a veteran quarterback to stabilize a position that has changed hands almost annually.
- ◆ GM Darren Mougey's brief was depth and competition, and the draft reflected it: three first-round picks used on three different position groups.
- ◆ The honest assessment from national previews: this collection of players is unlikely to produce immediate results, and expectations remain modest.
- ◆ Camp: July 28 – Aug. 29.

◆ TRADES & MAJOR TRANSACTIONS

- ◆ TRADE Justin Fields to Kansas City — ushered out after a disappointing 2025, closing another short quarterback chapter.
- ◆ SIGNED QB Geno Smith, back in New York after a season with the Raiders, plus QB Bailey Zappe.
- ◆ DRAFT Three first-rounders: EDGE David Bailey, TE Kenyon Sadiq and WR Omar Cooper Jr., then CB D'Angelo Ponds (2nd) and QB Cade Klubnik (4th).
- ◆ SIGNED CB Nahshon Wright, EDGE Joseph Ossai and EDGE Kingsley Enagbare — the rebuilt defensive rotation.

◆ PLAYER UPDATES & CAMP BATTLES

- ◆ Geno Smith, QB. Brought in to stabilize the position, which for the Jets means simply being the same person taking snaps in December as in September.
- ◆ QB BATTLE Behind him, the competition between Bailey Zappe, former undrafted free agent Brady Cook and fourth-round rookie Cade Klubnik is described as the roster's biggest August focus.
- ◆ David Bailey, EDGE (1st round). The headliner of a defensive rebuild that also brought in Ossai and Enagbare.
- ◆ Kenyon Sadiq, TE & Omar Cooper Jr., WR (both 1st round). Two rookie pass catchers given every chance to start immediately.
- ◆ D'Angelo Ponds, CB (2nd round). Pairs with free-agent Nahshon Wright in a reshaped secondary.
- ◆ Depth is the actual goal. ESPN's framing of this camp is whether Mougey has added enough of it to create real competition — a low bar that the Jets have missed before.

◆ LATEST ROSTER MOVES

MOVE	DETAIL

◆ THE BOTTOM LINE

The Jets did what teams do when the roof is leaking in several rooms at once: replaced half the staff, spent three first-round picks on three different needs, and signed a veteran quarterback who has done this job well somewhere else. It is a coherent plan and it is probably a year early. Aaron Glenn is the one who can't afford it to be — his seat is the loudest storyline of a camp that otherwise carries modest expectations.
