

PHILADELPHIA EAGLES INTEL REPORT

2026 training camp edition — A.J. Brown is gone, the offense is being rebuilt around a new play-caller's vision, and every question routes back to Jalen Hurts.

◆ FRONT OFFICE & LEADERSHIP

- ◆ New offensive voice. Sean Mannion, 34, formerly Green Bay's quarterbacks coach, is installing a scheme built on more under center, more motion, and more throws over the middle — concepts this offense has not leaned into with Hurts.
- ◆ End of an era on the line. Jeff Stoutland, the offensive line coach since 2013 and the most respected position coach in the building, has departed. Chris Kuper takes over — this is the linemen's first camp under him.
- ◆ Roseman kept trading. Philadelphia converted its best receiver into future capital and used the draft board aggressively again, extending the front office's pattern of selling a year early rather than a year late.

◆ TRADES & MAJOR TRANSACTIONS

- ◆ TRADE A.J. Brown to New England for a 2028 first-round pick and a 2027 fifth. From 2022–25 no NFL receiver commanded a greater share of his team's receiving yards (32.6%), and he was Hurts' safety valve against man coverage.
- ◆ TRADE Andy Dalton acquired from Carolina on a three-year, $24.75M deal ($15M guaranteed) — a serious investment in the backup room.
- ◆ TRADE Sent S Sydney Brown and picks 122 and 215 to Atlanta for picks 114 and 197 (March 20).
- ◆ SIGNED CB Riq Woolen — one year, up to $15M. WR Elijah Moore. RB Dameon Pierce (1 yr, March 19).
- ◆ LOST EDGE Jaelan Phillips to Carolina on a stunning 4-year, $120M deal; EDGE Azeez Ojulari to Atlanta; EDGE Josh Uche to Miami; QB Sam Howell to Dallas.

◆ PLAYER UPDATES & CAMP BATTLES

- ◆ Jalen Hurts, QB. The single biggest question in Philadelphia: whether his skill set and Mannion's under-center, middle-of-the-field vision actually align. Everything else on this roster is downstream of that answer.
- ◆ Landon Dickerson, G. Traveled to Columbia for stem cell injections in his knees and ankles, hoping to buy a healthier 2026.
- ◆ Cam Jurgens, C. Received stem cell treatment for back issues — the second of two starting interior linemen managing chronic problems.
- ◆ Receiver room, reordered. With Brown traded and Elijah Moore added, the target hierarchy behind DeVonta Smith is genuinely unsettled going into camp.
- ◆ Riq Woolen, CB. A one-year, high-upside bet on a corner whose traits have never been in question — the kind of prove-it deal Philadelphia has hit on before.
- ◆ Edge rush, thinned out. Phillips, Ojulari and Uche all left in the same offseason. Replacing that rotation is the defense's central camp assignment.

◆ THE BOTTOM LINE

Philadelphia responded to a wild-card exit by changing the two things that had defined it: the receiver who bent defenses and the coach who built the offensive line. In their place is a first-time play-caller asking Jalen Hurts to run a different kind of offense, behind two interior starters seeking stem-cell relief, with an edge rotation that emptied out in free agency. Roseman banked a 2028 first for the trouble. Whether that reads as foresight or as a step back depends almost entirely on August.
